

Long Game Fitting

$90

The goal of Long Game Gap Fitting is to provide you with the proper combination of clubs to fill the yardage and trajectory gap between your strongest iron and your #3 fairway metal.

Your Fitting Professional will first evaluate your current long game set composition. He'll fit you for a #3 fairway metal evaluating your launch and spin conditions and fitting for proper length.

Then you'll be asked to hit your #3 fairway metal and your longest playable iron. He will be noting the carry distance with each and will calculate the gap that might exist between the two.

He will then fit you for a higher lofted fairway metal and/or a utility iron to fill that yardage gap. Testing each club with various shafts, he will determine the best combination of clubs at the long end of your set, being sure that each club provides a playable trajectory.

The long game gap is the 30 to 50 yard gap that exists between how far you carry your 3 wood and your longest playable iron.

Playable Trajectory is defined as a high launching trajectory that produces maximum carry distance with a descending angle that will allow the ball to stop on a green with control.
