Pub Links Golfer Magazine utilizes PGA professionals to supervise amateurs to test the latest clubs both on a range and over at least one round of golf. All play-testers are volunteers. They are asked to rate clubs on Appearance, Feel, Forgiveness, Accuracy, Distance and Value using a scale of 1-10. Value is not based on cost alone, however what our testers believe provides the most value for the money. From these ratings we come up with an Overall Performance Rating. We DO NOT rate clubs against other clubs, rather, we ask our play-testers to rate the club for what it is, to them. This is a subjective exercise. We make no pretense to being scientific. We simply offer our readers the same kind of informal feedback they might get, say, from a friend.

These wedges are designed for mid to low handicappers who want maximum feel, accuracy and control. These wedges are double forged, handcrafted from S20C carbon steel, ground to perfection by expert Japanese craftsmen and have the feel and workability that every golfer craves. Each wedge is engineered with the ideal bounce and leading edge for optimal performance from all playing conditions; tight fairway lies, rough and bunkers. The wedge delivers maximum feel, accuracy, control and trajectory. Each forged wedge is available in both a high polish nickel chrome or 'raw' finish.

These iron-woods provide golfers with the accuracy of an iron combined with the distance of a wood. The lower center of gravity makes them extremely easy to hit and generates high, long shots that stop quickly. According to KZG, the precisely engineered roll and bulge guarantee perfect gear effect and through the work of their team of engineers, the "U" Series offers perfect trajectory, solid feel and forgiveness. The "U" Series are easy to play off the tee, on the fairway, and in the rough. KZG's exclusive network of dealers further enhance the performance of the "U" Series Utility Woods by using their expertise in fitting and building the club to ideally suit each golfers' swing and skill level.
